TEE SPARROW.

I am only a little sparrow. A b rc of low degree;
My lise is of little value,
But the dear Lord cares for me.

He gave me a coat of feathers— It is very plain! I know, With never alspeck of crimson, For it was not made for show; But it keeps me warm in Winser, Are it saields me from the rain

Were it bordered with gold or purple Per taps it would make me vain. I have no parn or storehouse, I neither sow nor reap;
God gives me a sparrow's portion,
Bit never a seed to keep. If my ment is sometimes scanty

Close picking makes it sweet I have always enough to feed me, And "life is more than meat." I know there are many sparrows; All-over the work, we are found; But our Heavenly Father I noweth When one of us falls to the ground.

Though small, we are not forgotten: Though weak, we are never af aid: For we snow that the dear Lord ceepeth The life of the creatures He made. I fly through the thickest forest, I light on many a spray; I have no thart or compass, But a never lose my way.

And I fold my wings at twihght;
Wherever happen to be;
For the Father is always watching. And no harm will come to m

Mr. Hump ney Stevens, of Greenfield, the we known registrar of ceeks of Francin County, used to keep a country store at Montague, and had a me never to refuse to trust a man for a co ar's worth o goods, as the act wou e get um a good customer, or show im the man trusted was not worth trusting, either o which facts it was worth a co lar to know. MAKING LIGHT OF DEATH.

The ast scene in "Lucretia Borgia," when the young gent emen who had dared the vengeance of the "Duchesst" are led off one by one by he priest after having been poisonedly which used to be the most impressive incident in the trage c ama, is nowacays oo sed upon by the audience as decidedly funny. When "Lucretia Borgia" was last given in Philadelmaia, the house mared at the sight of the coffins, and actually quizzed at the unlucky fe lows as they gloomily margined away. There was not ring in the acting to warrant tais. The fun arose from an appre intion of the very practical joke which has been so successfully played, true inwardness of the case then came to light, far enough on, and began to policidade as soon. All idea of the so empity of death was lost in and it is by no means head by to say "goat" to as the e'e mant's tusks were with rawn. THE ADVANTAGES OF COLO-RADO SERINGS AS A POINT. FOR REDUCING GOLD

AND SILVER GRES.

The undersigned committee, appointed by the citizens' meeting he c at the City Has in this city on the 13th day of March, A. D. 1876. under the olowing resolution unanimously accoted by said meeting, which resolution is as o ows: "Resorved, That a committee of five citizens be appoin ec by the meeting, whose cuty it shat be to gather statistics and demonstrate the practicability and advantages of Colorado Springs as a location for sme ting work; is so, to invite and encourage capitalists to erect such works at this place, and call a meeting of the peop e w renever necessary, to aci, tate the enter prise;" in the discharge of the cuties imposed by said resolution, deem it proper to issue this circular to the public, specially setting forth the advantages of the city of Coloraco

Springs as a point for reducing ores, This orlation, i not the very best, is certainly ecual to sny in Colorado for sme ling works. Situated as it is at the foot of the far famed Pike's Peak, where the Ute Pass empties itself upon the pains, woncerful facilities offer themse ves for manufacturing purposes, especial y the reduction of go and si ver ores.

The recent discoveries of gold and silver mines at the base and in the immediate vicinity o' Pixe's Peax, the Ecorado of, 1859, cemonstrates the act that the pioneers of that period were not altogether mistaken as to the existence of great weath in Pixe's Peak and its vicinity; out raving no means of developing odes and fissure mines, whether discovered or not they passee on to California Guich and other placer diggings further west. The facil ies for the reduction of lores, taken i in connection with our mild and invigorating climate, wi enable the reduction at very reduced price compared with the prices charged at Alma, Blak Lawk, and other points in the mountains, swing to the inclemency of the weather in the vicinity of the Snowy Range, where from thirty to fifty dollars per ton is charge ec for reducing ores. The operative can work twice as many cays in the year at his point, and labor will not cost more than half here what it does there. Hence it appears that the saving in the cost of labor alone wi be very great, which—taken in connection with the use of water power instead of steam, and the saving of transportation in shipping necessary supplies, including fire-brick, salt and castings, into the mountains, and the saving of expense for fuel by our stone coal, and in prohis point the sun was from one charter curing fluor spar, iron ore and imestone in the to a nation obscured. MINING NOTES. REPORTED WEEKLY BY

THE COLORADO SPRINGS MINING AGENCY.

EL PASO COUNTY. The weather for the past week has been adverse to prospecting and to the work of develcoment. The greater part of the work being surface work and the men wathout she ter, it has generally been preferred to await a change before prosecuting the work further. What has been cone and learned of thefores, their position, and assay, has been decidedly favorable. and has gone to strengthen the faith in the value of all the discoveries of mineral made in this vicinity.

Arrangements for testing the veins and ores Crevenne Mountain by sinking to the depth of 100 feet, if not proven sooner, have been perfected, and work will be commenced as soon as the committee appointed for selecting the claims on which the test is to be made have made their report.

Several new discoveries of galena-bearing veins are reported. The samples we have seen, although showing numerous small particles of galena, the rock has more the appearance of being go d-bearing than of producing ga ena in quantity. No assay has been had. These are

On Friday, the 2ath uit., one of my neighpors and two companions prought to the pome Farm a man more ceat, than asive whom they had found stretched out to die by an old log, some five miles hway in the woods. Too exhauster to sheak he threw up his arms to attract their attention, and then sank back onto the bed of back and fine eaves he had scraped together ocidion. With difficulty they risec aim into the wagon, his left leg annging useless, and his whole frame exhausted with starvation. Stretched on a bed and slightly eased by the simple remedies we gave him, the fo owing story of fright'u suffering was getheres from him corroborated by known facts as to date and other details of place and circumstances. The man, George Severs by name, arrived in the Park about four weeks previous looking for work, raving spen, all his summer earnings gained in the mines. From that time until ist Monday week he has worken for Yr. Smith for his board, on which day Smith turned him off without a cent or a brust of bread, The man then struck out for briplay by the corsethief Trail, a lonely track over the hills, About five miles from Smith's ranch, this traipasses by the Christ Ranch. When he arrived there Severs thought he would stop to mend his boots which were worn on the soles with some backs and leather he had, and with a hammer he had seen laying by the nouse. When he had finished nailing on the leather, which is on his boot now as a witness of the truth of his statement, he began to look about for a old knife to cut the edges smooth. Searching in every place he could think of he at last came to the stable, the coor of which was locked though the window was entirely open with nothing but a piece of gunny sack hanging loose over it. On coking in and seeing an old riowing maching and some old tools standing in the corner, he thought he might find what he wanted, and with what I fully believe as honest an intention as a or any other man could have thought no harm of climbing in to look for what he wanted. The rule of the mountains is that a man has a right to the use of the first house or stable he comes to if be mighted and chight in a stora, and I answer I with twenty others would, if pressed for shelter, have combed in to try and un to the chain to find sheher for a horse, especially when there was no notice of any description warning people rot to enter. Severs cambed on to the window and was letting down one leg to drop to the ground when he struck the wire of a fiondish trap, there was an explosion, and his ball tram a revolver. Throwing himself down year, from the window he at once commenced a journey, the agony and horror of which, no mortal MANTOU C. U. AND READING who has not passed through such a time can conceive. For three days and nights without food or blankets he crawled and sank, crawled and sank, until he had trave ed nearly three miles. The nights were severe every one of them, and one with a snow storm. On the third day nature was exhaused, and he ay where he was found, expecting, aye hoping, for death.
